About me

I'm Owais Noor, a passionate Full Stack Software Developer with over 8+ years of experience. # A senior partner, not a faceless agency

One expert who owns the outcome from first idea to launch and growth. I help small and growing businesses look like category leaders online. Instead of stitching together a designer, a developer, and a marketing agency, you get one accountable expert delivering premium interfaces, clean and performant code, and marketing that's engineered around leads, not vanity metrics. AI and automation are woven in wherever they genuinely save time or win customers.

My development philosophy

Client-Centric Approach

Every project begins with understanding your unique vision. I ensure that my development solutions align with your brand, audience, and goals, integrating your feedback at every step.

Efficiency and Quality

Leveraging agile development methodologies, I aim to deliver high-quality work on time. My code is clean, scalable, and adaptable, making it easy to maintain and expand.

Why choose me?

When you hire me, you're not filing a ticket with an agency and waiting in a queue, you're getting a direct line to the person actually building your project. Design, development, and marketing usually mean juggling three separate vendors who each blame the other when something breaks. I bring all three under one roof, so there's one person accountable for the outcome from the first idea to launch and growth.

I developed this application as a Single Page Application (SPA) to provide a smooth, uninterrupted experience for users. Unlike traditional websites where each click or navigation requires a full page reload sending a new request to the server and waiting for a response with a fresh HTML document, this SPA only loads the initial HTML page once.
